State releases school test result comparisons

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Local schools got the rest of their year 2000 "report card" this week, as the State of California released Academic Performance Index scores in which their students' performance was compared to that of other schools with "similar" demographics.

Washington Unified School District schools, in general, showed slight improvement but remained underperforming.

"Most schools posted API gains this past year," said a district staff report from curriculum administrator Paul Johnson. "However, some schools either maintained their ranking or dropped because of a rise in the state median score."

As most California schools improved on the state tests, some local schools failed to match that improvement, and consequently slipped in the "comparison" rankings.

Each school received a "raw" score of 200 to 1000 points. Schools were then ranked on these raw scores with a number from one to ten; a "one" meant that the school was in the bottom ten percent of all schools on the tests; a "four" meant that it was still below-average and in the "fourth" group of ten percentiles from the bottom, and so on. A "10" means that a school is in the highest ten-percent group.

After earning a raw score, the state then computed a "similar school" ranking in which each school's performance is compared to those of other schools with similar demographics. If a school does better than its peers, according to a state formula, it can rank highly in this category even if its raw score is not good – or vice versa.

Three local schools had API scores low enough to justify the first stage of state intervention.

Bryte and Alyce Norman Elementary Schools joined River City High School in being granted $50,000 and mandated to hire an outside advisor to come up with a performance-improvement plan. The school board has hired Dr. Jennie Boyer to design this plan, and a parent survey and curriculum analysis are now underway.

"Generally speaking, they need to do a good analysis of why their performance is so low," said Patrick Campbell, interim superintendent. "Were they low in math, reading, social studies, or where? And secondly, they need to send out surveys to parents, asking what they think is going on."

Preliminary studies by Boyer indicate "the kids aren't being challenged sufficiently and the core teaching material isn't relevant enough" for limited English-speaking students, said Campbell.

The API results will be discussed at Thursday's school board meeting.

Scores are on a "one-to-ten" basis, with higher numbers being better. See text for more explanation.

McGowan says he'll run for 8th District Assembly seat

Yolo County Supervisor Michael McGowan announced his candidacy for the Eight District State Assembly seat on Monday.

The assembly seat is now held by fellow Democrat Helen Thomson of Davis, but Thomson will step aside next year under term limit law.

McGowan is a West Sacramento native, entering politics when the city voted to incorporate in 1986 and then served as the city's first mayor. He has served two terms on the city council and unsuccessfully ran for state senate against current senator Maurice Johannessen.

McGowan is now in his third term in the First District supervisor's seat, representing Clarksburg and most of West Sacramento. He ran unopposed for re-election last year.

"I am proud to have served the people of West Sacramento and Yolo County," McGowan said in a press release. "The explosive growth of the I-80 corridor and the quality of life all of us enjoy throughout Yolo and Solano counties is becoming increasingly challenged. We need to encourage diversified economic opportunities in our region, but not at the expense of our families, our neighborhoods and our communities."

Yolo Sup. Mike McGowan

The Eighth District Assembly seat serves Solano County (except Vallejo) and most of Yolo County. Cities in the district include Benicia, Rio Vista, Fairfield, Vacaville, Dixon, Davis, Winters, Woodland and West Sacramento.

Born in 1947, McGownan attended James Marshall High School (now River City High) and served in the U.S. Marine Corps artilleryman in Vietnam. He earned a bachelor's degree in government from Sacramento State and a law degree from McGeorge School of Law in 1976. He opened a law practice in 1977 and has served as a judge tempore in Yolo courts.

The primary election for the assembly seat will be held in March, 2002, when McGowan hopes to receive the nomination from the Democrats. The general election will be in November, 2002.

McGowan has made his announcement more than a year ahead of the primaries. Other local names rumored – but not announced – to be considering a run for Thomson's seat include local city council member and Democrat Christopher Cabaldon and Davis-based county supervisor Dave Rosenberg.

Suspect sought in local shooting –

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A 23-year old man is in "stable" condition in a Sacramento intensive care unit after being shot twice in a confrontation on Palomar Ave. Friday night.

Victim Isidro Sanchez has told police he had left a West Capitol Ave. nightclub, Ortega's West, shortly before the shooting, and had "an altercation" with the suspect at the bar. The two then both proceeded in their cars to Palomar Ave. in the Meadowdale residential subdivision where the shooting occurred.

The suspect is identified as a Hispanic male in his 20s or 30s. He was driving a black, extended cab pickup truck, possibly a Dodge Ram.

The nightclub has been the subject of police and Alcoholic Beverage Control agency enforcement actions.

"We've had a few cops out there lately," said Lt. Ray Hensley of the West Sacramento Police Dept.

Anyone with information on the shooting is asked to call Sgt. Tom Bowler or Detective Deanna Stevens at 372-2461.

Tentative deal with teachers ——

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The Washington Unified School District and its teacher's union have a tentative deal to "split the difference" over a pay raise dispute, ending an acerbic disagreement on how much state "windfall" money given to the district will go to the teachers.

"We felt we had offered them a 6.5 percent raise, but it came out to about 7.8 percent (after a disagreement in negotiations)," said acting superintendent Patrick Campbell. "We basically split the difference. It's going to be a 7.2 percent increase."

Campbell said the proposed deal has been approved by the union membership, and will go in front of the school board for ratification Thursday. He said he was "fairly sure" the board would approve it.

(Editor's Note: A headline referring to the dispute in last week's News-Ledger called it an "impasse." Although the two sides were locked in disagreement at the time, the word "impasse" is used by labor negotiators to describe a more serious stalemate in which negotiations have stopped. An "impasse" had not been declared in these negotiations.)

Cars impounded at license/sobriety check

The West Sacramento Police Dept. held a "sobriety checkpoint" and driver's license checkpoint between 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, on eastbound West Capitol Ave. near Sycamore Ave.

451 vehicles drove through the checkpoint, with 34 of them directed to a staging area for the checks. Six field sobriety tests were performed and one driver was arrested for being under the influence. Eight vehicles were impounded for being driven by suspended or unlicensed vehicles, and two were stored for other reasons.

One stolen vehicle was recovered, as well, and its driver had a suspended license.

Molest suspect arrested in Louisiana

A West Sacramento child molestation suspect who fled the state after posting bail has been arrested in Louisiana, reports the West Sacramento Police Department.

William Dalby was named a suspect in the molestation of about four children at an in-home child care facility operated by his wife, Tamara Laughlin-Dalby, in 1999, police said. He was charged with over 50 counts of molestation, allegedly occurring over a period of several months. His wife is now on probation from charges related to the case; she had been charged with failing to provide a safe place for the children.

William Dalby was arrested in July, 1999, following the investigation, but fled after posting bail. The local police department and U.S. Marshal's Office cooperated to obtain a federal warrant for his arrest, and worked on following up leads. Deputy Marshal Adalberto Tapia identified a home in Marion, Louisiana, as the possible location of Dalby on Jan. 17. U.S. Marshals and Union Parish Sheriff's Deputies then searched the residence, locating and arresting Dalby.

Seventeen firearms were also removed from the home.

Lt. Ray Hensley of the West Sacramento Police Dept. said he was not aware if Dalby had already been returned to West Sacramento, but said that proceedings were underway to bring him back to the Yolo County Court system.

'Academic athletes' to compete ——

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A team from River City High School will join other Yolo County students in the annual "Academic Decathlon" sponsored by the Yolo County Office of Education on Feb. 3 at the community college in Woodland.

Each team member will compete in events including economics, social science, math, music and art. Each student will also participate in individual speech, interview and essay segments. This year's decathlon theme is "Understanding the Self."

The competition is capped by a "Super Quiz" segment, pitting teams against each other in an "academic relay."

The team's train throughout the year, and are divided into sub-teams with different grade point average ranges.

New study: women really love to do housework

Note: A reader who has subscribed to the News-Ledger for almost three decades recently requested I re-run a column I wrote a few years ago about the joys of housework. Against my better judgment (my wife has threatened to brain me if she ever sees it in print again), here it is.

By Daryl Fisher

"Hey, Mary," I cried out to my wife the other evening, "have you by any chance read this article in today's newspaper about how women are really starting to enjoy doing housework again?"

"What did you say?" yelled back my wife, who was in the next room leisurely playing a game of computer solitaire even though the kitchen sink was overflowing with dirty dinner dishes.

"That's what this article says," I continued. "Yep, it says right here in black and white that a bunch of researchers have found that a majority of women now say it's very important to them that their homes be neat and tidy. And that's up by more than ten percent from 1975. Apparently there's a life pattern for housekeeping. Cleanliness standards seem to rise for women in their 20s, did in their 30s and 40s, and then swing back up again in their 50s. And with the baby-boomers all turning 50, houses everywhere are starting to get cleaner."

"What in the world are you talking about?"

"Boy, Mary, this article is just full of information. Did you know that you can polish chrome with mayonnaise, remove bubble gum with peanut butter, and clean piano keys with yogurt? And listen to this! Men have almost doubled the amount of housework they do. We're all the way up to ten whole hours a week now."

"Ten hours a year is probably more like it," I thought I heard her say.

"It also says that more women are starting to buy real dishes instead of paper plates; and that they're dusting and polishing the furniture every week instead of just once a month; and that the sales of brooms, mops and vacuum cleaners have been going right through the roof. And oh, yeah, here's one you might be interested in. It says here that more and more women are finding it really difficult to sleep soundly at night if they haven't washed all the dinner dishes before they go to bed."

Suddenly, my wife was right in front of me. "You made that last one up, didn't you?"

"Of course not," I lied.

"You know," said my wife with fire in her eyes, "your arm isn't broken. Why don't YOU get up and put the dinner dishes in the dishwasher for a change. It wouldn't exactly kill you, you know."

"But I don't know how to work the dishwasher," I said with the most pitiful expression I could produce.

"It's not exactly nuclear science," she assured me.

"Oh, that's okay," I said, definitely not wanting to depart from my long held policy of remaining totally ignorant of the workings of all household appliances.

"And for you information," she added with emphasis, "I did read that stupid article you have in you hands. Would you like to know the part I really liked?"

"Well, sure."

"The part where they quoted Erma Bombeck as saying, 'Housework can kill you if you do it right!"

"Hey," chimed in my smiling 22-year-old daughter, who had been listening to the conversation with a smile, "you want to know what I think about housework?"

"No," said my wife and I in unison.

"I think housework is meaningless," she said anyway. "I mean, why should I make my bed if I'm just going to get back in it the next night? And I'm with Mom -- why is it that women get stuck with keeping houses clean? The whole idea is absurd. It makes absolutely no sense, especially since men are the real slobs anyway. If some lazy man thinks I'm going to spend my whole life slaving away keeping his house clean, he has another thought coming!"

A few days later, I happened to mention to a work friend of mine that my wife, daughter and I had recently had a lengthy and rather heated discussion on the subject of housework.

"What brought that ugly subject up?" she asked with apparent interest.

"Oh, some silly newspaper article that I was reading."

"Well," she said with understanding, "women have been known to get a little touchy from time to time when men bring up the subject of housework."

"Boy, tell me about it," I said. "Now why do you think that is?"

"Because we're the ones who always get stuck doing it."

"Oh."

"Anyway, would you like to hear what I think about the subject of housework?"

"Sure," I said, having long held her way of looking at the world in high regard.

"I think housework is an awfully lot like sex," she said with a straight face. "Just when you think you're through with it for awhile, you end up having to do it all over again."

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

Two local boxing champions defended their world titles on the same weekend in different cities but with opposite results. West Sacramento's Willie Jorrin celebrated his first title defense with a unanimous decision at the Arco Arena on Friday night while the previously unbeaten Diego Corrales suffered a terrible beating at the hands of Floyd Mayweather on Saturday night in Las Vegas.

Jorrin fought a tremendous fight but his heart had to be beating very rapidly until he heard the famous words "and still champion of the world" Willie Jorrin. These words bring joy, fame and larger paydays to world titleholders. Before a crowd of 4,944 and a national television audience (ESPN2), Jorrin went toe-to-toe with the WBC's No. 1 contender, Oscar Larios. Jorrin used a vicious body attack over the last six rounds of the 12-round bout to pull out a close but unanimous decision. All three judges: Larry Rozadilla of Los Angeles, Ken Morita of Japan and Omar Mintun of Mexico scored the fight 115-113 in favor of Jorrin. The judges had Jorrin winning seven rounds to five for Larios but depending on who you talked to it was a very close fight.

So what's next for the WBC super-bantamweight (122 lbs.) champion? The WBC may order Jorrin to fight Michael Brodie in a rematch of their first brawl in England or maybe a rematch with Oscar Larios, who of course thought he won the fight. There are two things for sure in the future of the WBC Champion. First, Jorrin will take some well-deserved time off and probably defend his title here in Sacramento in May or April. And secondly, Jorrin is going to have another big payday! Another rumor floating around the boxing world is the colorful veteran fighter, Johnny Tapia, wants Willie to defend his title in New Mexico on a Showtime telecast that would be a huge payday for our local hero!

Unfortunately for Diego "Chico" Corrales (33-1), his night in the ring resulted in an embarrassing effort at the hands of Floyd Mayweather on the HBO telecast. Corrales was knocked down five times and his father and trainer, Ray Woods, threw in the towel in the 10th round. Diego's fate may have been set before he actually stepped into the ring for the biggest fight of his career. Corrales had a weight problem and failed to make the mandatory 130-pound limit at the official weigh-in. Corrales was forced to sit in a sauna room and exercise for two hours to shed the two extra pounds. As the fight progressed into the later rounds Corrales legs seemed to give out on him and he was knocked down five times with short left hooks to the head. Running out of gas in the boxing ring with Floyd Mayweather could be hazardous to your health.

To add insult to injury, the winner of the fight was also guaranteed a multi-fight contract with HBO worth about $15 million. The good news for Chico was that he earned about $1.2 million for the title fight, the biggest payday of his career. What's next for the Sacramento fighter? Corrales next biggest fight will be in a Sacramento courtroom next month when he goes on trial on felony spousal abuse charges after that according to Corrales "I just don't know".

The Sacramento Kings (27-11) showed a world (NBC) television audience that they are the "real deal" this season with their 111-101 victory over the Blazers in Portland. The win put the Kings on top of the Pacific Division by mere percentage points. Chris Webber led the way to the stunning 10-point victory with 34 points. A major reason the Kings beat Portland was that Rick Adelman and his staff out coached the Blazers in the fourth quarter. Adelman removed Jason Williams from the point guard position in the third quarter and replaced him with Doug Christie and added Trukoglu to the lineup making Christie, the shortest man at 6-6", the point guard. Christie shutdown the Blazers point guard, Damon Stoudamire (5-8") and the rest is history.

C-Webb is making a strong push for the starting forward position for the NBA All-Star team. Webber averaged 31 points, 12 rebounds, 4 assists, and 3 blocks last week and was awarded the NBA player of the week for his efforts. Another reason the Kings are winning is the outstanding play of Peja Stojakovic and the defense of Doug Christie. Peja knocked down 30 points in the Kings loss to Seattle on Sunday and Christie is leading the NBA in steal-to-turnover ratio at 1.22. Christie has 79 steals and only 65 turnovers.

The Kings, who are sporting a three game home winning streak, are home his week to face the New Jersey Nets on Tuesday, January 23rd and the San Antonio Spurs (TNT/ch.31-7:30) on Thursday night featuring the "Twin Towers" in David Robinson and Tim Duncan.

Now for my Super Bowl XXXV predictions! The Ravens are a 3-point favorite and the odds makers set the under/over line at 33 points, the lowest in Super Bowl history.

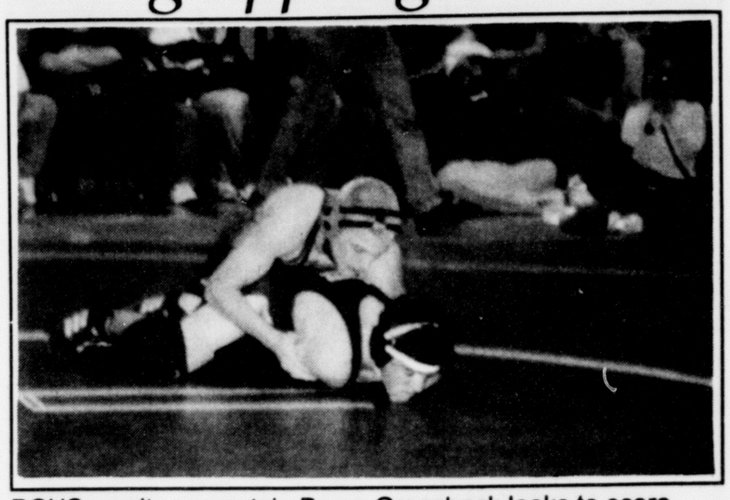

First of all the Ravens have shut down the three best offenses in the AFC, holding the Broncos and Raiders to a field goal and allowed the Titans the only touchdown in their three wild card victories while holding their 3 opponents to a total of 16 points. The Ravens offense only scores effort points to win close games. The Ravens quarterback, Trent Dilfer, has only thrown one interception in the playoffs and the Ravens are 10-1 with Dilfer as a starter. Baltimore even won two games this season without scoring a touchdown.

The N.Y. Giants have an excellent defense but I'm not sold on their offensive power even though they fired up the Vikings 41-0. The Ravens beat the Giants this season in a pre-season game 24-17. The whole world is expecting a boring low scoring game so that only means the game will be an exciting high scoring event with the Baltimore Ravens beating the New York Giants and ex-Tampa Bay QB - Trent Dilfer the game MVP!

Super Bowl XXXV:
Baltimore 26 - New York 16

Bob and Debbie Bouzard

Bob and Debbie Bouzard, the owner/operators of River City Satellite, are both longtime West Sacramento residents.

"My parents, Jim and June Emerson, have lived here forever," said Debbie, "and when I was young, I went to Westmore Oaks Elementary School and Our Lady of Grace School before attending and graduating from James Marshall High School in 1976. Bob graduated from James Marshall, too, in 1974, and although we spent a few years in Ohio when his work took us out of state, West Sacramento has always been our home. We love the small town atmosphere where everybody knows everybody else and it wasn't too long ago that we were living off of Higgins and Linden Road and eight of the ten houses in our court were owned by people we had gone to school with. There's something really nice about knowing all your neighbors for years and years and then running into them all the time at the grocery store and the Little League park."

After Bob and Debbie got out of school, Bob went into the retail management business and he has been employed by a number of well-known corporations, including Price Club, Woolworth's and Toys 'R' Us. Debbie is an executive secretary and meeting planner and together she and Bob have also managed to find the time to raise five children, who range in age from nine to 22.

Awhile back, Bob and Debbie, who live in Southport, decided to install cable television in their home, but they soon discovered that the local cable television line stopped at the railroad tracks before it reached their house. They tried another company, which came out and put up a 25-foot antenna on their roof, but they only received approximately 30 channels and their monthly bill was more than they wanted to pay. When they learned that the Dish 500 Satellite TV System could install an 18-inch satellite disk on their roof for less than they were already paying, and that they would be able to receive over 150 different channels, they jumped at the opportunity. They were also amazed at the wonderful reception they got from their new satellite dish.

"A lot of homeowners, especially in rural areas, simply can't get cable the way city dwellers can," explained Bob, "and in my search for quality programming and competitive prices, it quickly became obvious to me that I had come across the perfect solution for me and my family."

"A friend of Bob's, Ron Miller, has been installing satellite dishes for years," added Debbie, "and it suddenly made a lot of sense to all of us to open up our own company and make this wonderful new technology available to everyone in West Sacramento. We applied for a dealership, became an authorized retailer, and we've already sold ten units since the first of September."

"Our long-term goal is to expand our business into the Davis, Woodland and Dixon corridor," said Bob, "but for now we're trying to get the word out in West Sacramento that we have an excellent product that is reasonably priced and an excellent alternative to underground cable and wireless broadcasting."

"We're offering our customers a free dish and installation if they decide to convert from cable to the Dish 500 Satellite TV System," explained Debbie. "For a one-year programming commitment of only $39.98 a month, they'll receive better reception, far more channels and pay less per month than they already do. Installation takes less than two hours and whether you decide to purchase the equipment or rent it, both Bob and I are convinced that this is the wave of the future."

"It won't be long before the Internet is on the Dish 500 Satellite TV System," said Bob, "plus if you're a big sports fan, you'll be able to purchase packages for all the games of your favorite National Football League and National Basketball Association teams."

"This is a win-win situation for everyone," added Debbie, "and we're convinced that once people are exposed to everything that's available on our satellite dishes, they'll wonder how they ever got along without one."

Bob and Debbie's five children are Kimberly, Jacqueline, Stephanie, Bobby and Tiffany.

"We've really been blessed to have such a wonderful family and live in this special community," said Bob, "and both Debbie and I are really excited about our new business and all the entertainment and information it can bring to our friends and neighbors. We hope everyone will give us a call and take a look for themselves at what they've been missing."

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

Seven Tips For Getting Financially Fit

(NAPS)—The Internet is an increasingly valuable resource for consumers who strive to become "financially fit"—whether they're looking for tips on investment strategies, saving techniques or money management.

MSN MoneyCentral (www.moneycentral.msn.com) is one Web site that offers a wealth of services to help consumers manage their money and set reasonable financial goals. The site's tools and services can help users:

1. Manage debt. First, determine how much money is needed each month to pay off debts and other obligations. The Debt Evaluation Calculator helps consumers figure out debt payments each month and whether their ratio of debt to income is acceptable or too high. There's also a Managing Debt Guide to help consumers understand the psychology of spending, create a budget, reduce expenses, find a low-cost credit card, connect with a debt counselor and work to repair bad credit.

2. Establish savings goals. The Savings Calculator helps consumers create a plan for setting aside money. Consumers simply enter their criteria to determine how much they want to save, how long they want to save and how much they can afford. The Savings Calculator then factors in taxes and rate of return.

3. Create a retirement plan. In order to reach goals for retirement, consumers must first map out a plan. With the Create Your Plan step-by-step guide, Money Central walks consumers through the process of identifying and establishing retirement goals.

4. Research and track investments. To check out new investment opportunities, consumers can use the Investment Finder, which screens an in-depth database of 16,000 stocks and mutual funds, or the Research Wizard, which evaluates a stock's fundamental data and explains key issues to consider. Consumers can then track their holdings in the site's Portfolio Manager.

Financial Web sites can help make it easier for consumers to stay on top of their money.

5. Prepare for next year's taxes. It's never too early to begin tax planning. MoneyCentral provides consumers with forms, articles, tips and tables to help them get a handle on their individual tax situation. Consumers can even get answers to their specific tax questions from Jeff Schnepper, author of the best-selling book, How to Pay Zero Taxes.

6. Reassess insurance needs. It is important to reassess life, health, auto and home insurance needs regularly to ensure sufficient coverage at a good price. Through the Insurance Planner tool, consumers can find out in less than 15 minutes if they have the right kind of insurance—and find links to tools and articles, plus get direct access to online quotes.

7. Monitor accounts regularly. The My Money Central tool delivers a personalized Web page where consumers can easily review their financial account balances, including portfolios, checking, savings or credit card accounts. Essentially, this is the "mission control" center for managing personal finances—enabling consumers to see their entire financial picture in one place.

Further information regarding these tools and other tips for getting financially fit is available at www.moneycentral.msn.com.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Alternative energy: starting to look pretty good

A few months ago, the News-Ledger published a couple of items discussing the use of geothermal energy to provide heat and cooling power to homes and businesses. This technology pays for itself over time with a savings of energy and money. It also cuts down on pollution. And it is even more cost-efficient to install "in bulk," when a number of units are built at one time.

Subdivisions continue to spring up in West Sacramento's Southport region. A new school is planned. And California is currently facing an energy shortage and severe utility rate hike. Geothermal is starting to look like an even smarter choice. In 10 or 20 years, who knows? We may really wish we had pursued alternatives to conventional heat and cooling sources when we had the chance.

The Washington Unified School District's school board will meet tomorrow to discuss how to hire a replacement for controversial former superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher. A former assistant superintendent, Patrick Campbell, is currently holding down the fort in that position as an "interim" superintendent.

Campbell will be one candidate for the superintendent's post, and he looks good so far. There have been no political meltdowns on Campbell's watch, and little reason to complain. Even the district's current dispute with the teacher's union about a salary contract had its roots in the former administration.

Nevertheless, the school board would be wise to continue pursuing an outside search for a new superintendent, opening up the job search to the widest possible pool of candidates.

High on the list of the board's questions about a search is whether to engage a "headhunter" firm to fill the post. These executive search firms often have motives in conflict with the school district they are hired to help; they make money by successfully "selling" a candidate to the district, and not necessarily for making sure that candidate is a good one. They sometimes work both sides, helping to groom a candidate for a fee, and then placing him or her in a job for another fee – giving them a motivation to "push" for their own clients to receive the job. Based on past experience, an "in-house" superintendent search launched as impartially as possible might be a better idea.

Senior Center history

With all the new seniors growing amongst us, I thought I would let them know how we started our search for a senior center.

The East Yolo Senior Club was the first senior club to be established in the West Sacramento area. It was organized in late 1969 under the direction of Phobe German.

Shortly thereafter, the Broderick Christian Center (BBC) received a grant from the Older American Act to organize a program serving elderly residents of the East Yolo area. The Club served as an advisory body and provided activities and financial assistance for the senior program.

Activities began in two rooms in the BCC main building and quickly expanded to the gymnasium next door. Not long after that, through a bequest from the friends of the Center, a small house adjoining the gym was purchased for senior use. We named it Opportunity House. That is when we started to have rummage, bake, and arts and crafts sales. We also had a table in the Arden Fair Mall and won first place for the best decorated table. Then there was the Bazaar Workshop led by Virginia Ortiz where lovable Raggedy Anns and many other items too numerous to mention were made and sold, always saving the money we made towards a real senior center in the future.

John Siden was one of our directors at the BCC and is still active in the community. As the years went by some of the seniors moved or passed away. In the meantime, the East Yolo Senior Club moved to Riverbend Senior Manor and with the consent of the tenants started programs and activities there. We were happy with the move to excellent quarters and our seniors enjoyed using their many skills to help other seniors in the community, and we also kept up our yard sales and other events to save towards a senior center.

Just think how many hours, or should I say years, those seniors put their hearts and souls into this project, and how many fingers bled from pricking them with the needles they used. I guess you can say they shed their blood for a senior center and you cannot put a price on all the hours of love and dreams these seniors worked towards all seniors in our city. The city has a special account were they have the monies given to them by the East Yolo Senior Club, approximately $19,000.

When the Club disbanded we left the City of West Sacramento a legacy of creative programs and a tradition of fellowship and deep concern for senior citizens. Hopefully we will see our building soon.

What energy crisis?

What's this energy crisis thing all about? Deregulation of public utilities was enacted by unanimous vote of the Legislature and Pete Wilson. It was supposed to lead to more competition and lower consumer prices. Much of the answers seem to be in the hands of what we now call the power suppliers.

Deregulation required PGE, Southern California Edison, etc, to divest themselves of their generator plants and natural gas plants. But nobody seemed to care who bought those power plants. The State should launch an investigation into this and if management, stockholders and employees of the new power plants are significantly the same as those recently employed by PGE and SCE, then we'd know for sure that the energy crisis is phoney! Another lesson we should have learned: When it comes to providing such present-day essential supplies of electricity and natural gas, the only way deregulation can work is to make sure there is true competition from the source to the consumer. While this is still a degree of regulation, this is as far as we can go. We cannot simply trust a one-only provider in that link. Why? It is called greed.

And this alleged bankruptcy the local power providers cite reminds me of a TV documentary back in 1963 entitled "Bankruptcy: The Art of Getting Rich by Going Broke!" They examined how at various financial levels people would start up a business, borrow a lot of money and/or purchase much on credit, and suddenly declare bankruptcy, with creditors and future customers thereof holding the bag in the form of higher prices. Shortly thereafter those same people would repeat the act under another name, making more money by cheating more people, legally of course,

And before farmland is converted to neighborhoods, shopping centers, business or manufacturing, developers must first make sure there is ample water, sewage treatment capacity, trash pickup, schools and police and fire protection. It is known as providing adequate infrastructure. We'd better add natural gas and electricity to the list. Just imagine developers getting the okay for everything except gas and lights. But they still get the green light. Is it the spread it thinner and charge them more logic?

If consumers are to be hit with such heavy rate hikes, maybe we should be issued shares of stock from the power suppliers for the difference? And that's shares of stock from the power suppliers, not PGE or SCE, the latter two now classified like junk bonds.

So what should it be: true competition, re-regulation or government owned and operated? State leaders must investigate, consider aforementioned factors and take action.

The bottom line: restore affordable natural gas and electricity to businesses and consumers.

CASE NUMBER: PB017

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: Juanita Wilma Ploof:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Donald George Ploof in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Donald George Ploof be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests that the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration's authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on 2/1/2001 at 8:30 a.m., Dept. 5, 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Local Items

The Sacramento river registered 4 feet 10 inches, U. S. gauge, at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday.

Last Tuesday a runaway accident on the Yolo side of the Southern Pacific bridge looked so serious for a time that it seemed absolutely evident some lives would be lost. Fortunately everything turned out with a great deal of excitement and no damage to any one, not even to the horses being driven by a couple of Japanese and who became frightened at a sheet of paper which blew between them on the incline of the bridge. Tearing down the incline they could not be stopped and nearly turned over the watchman's shanty at the Third street crossing, then down the side of the embankment for about 100 feet, where one of the horses fell and the wagon piled on top of both of them. The two Japs were thrown clear of wreckage but were pelted by lettuce crates which made up the load. Fortunately, the horses remained quiet when down and with the help of all the men in the locality were soon extricated without damage. The wagon had to be turned over completely before the shafts could be straightened out again.

On Sunday morning the auto truck owned by the Sacramento Reduction Works and coming to this side of the river skidded or slid into the automobile owned by Tony Sousa and driven by him on his way to Sacramento. There was slight damage to the truck but a good deal of damage to the auto owned by Sousa. The peculiar part of it was that, although Sousa was on his part of the road and on his right-of-way, he was placed under arrest in Sacramento where he remained for several hours. He is again at liberty.

Frank Weber of Davis was a visitor in town yesterday, renewing old acquaintances and collecting rents that come to him regularly in Washington.

Joseph O'Neill, familiarly known as "Red," who hangs around the Hoffman saloon in his spare time, has just reurned from Westwood, Lassen County, where he has been working for the Lassen Lumber Co. "Red" says booze is quite plentiful about that dry section of the country, but too dry for him, because he does not like to be a sneak at any time.

Frank T. Brown told an interesting story yesterday in relation to R. W. Thompson, who dropped dead in Sacramento on or about December 15th, from influenza. Thompson was a native of New Zealand or Australia and through the fortunes of war would have been in possession of a fortune on or about January 15th next in the amount of about $115,000. Brown had worked with Thompson for several years in the employ of Harbinson Bros., and in other localities in the State of California and Nevada. Brown has tried to locate Thompson's remains but has been unable so far, and since Thompson was the only heir to the fortune above mentioned, there is a probability that later inquiry will be successful in securing further details.

Next Monday, January 6th, Constable Henry Buckingham will be installed in the office of Town Constable and J. D. Barry will succeed himself in the position of Justice of the Peace. The cabinet selected some time ago to help out Buckingham in his efforts to keep peace and quiet for the next four years has been dismissed for lack of evidence. Probably the town wits may select another cabinet for him of a more congenial disposition.

Last Wednesday a tarpaulin owned by Bob Hill and used to cover some hay in the Todhunter place at Third and Elizabeth streets was taken by some petty thief. Ira Davis saw the fellow walk away with the canvas but believing that he had Hill's permission to take it, did not intercept him. Bob needs the canvas very badly and is out looking for the fellow who stole it.

Louis Palm is at home from the hospital, where he was confined for three weeks, following an operation for appendicitis. He is improving nicely now and as Mrs. E. A. Palm is chief cook, it is needless to say that he will soon be himself again.

Business at the Washington Grocery during the Xmas holidays was so brisk that extra help had to be employed during the season. Mrs. Kinch, with her brother-in-law, are gradually adding to a splendid stock of goods and through their courtesy and fair prices are also adding customers every day.

C. M. Bowlen of Riverbank is again able to attend to his business at the Wood-Curtis store in Sacramento after two weeks absence, durwhich he was a victim of influenza. At the same time, four of his children were down and Mrs. Bowlen seriously ill. All have recovered except Mrs. Bowlen who is suffering from nervous break-down.

J. Trudell has practically disposed of his junk business in Washington and bought a grocery store in Sacramento, located on M street between 15th and 16th. During the past three years, Jack, as he was familiarly known, or Junkie Jack, did a thriving business in the locality and his many friends wish him success in his new venture.

C. W. Templar from Imlay, Nevada, has been a visitor in Washington during several days past. He says that Nevada is the funniest thing on the face of the globe under a dry regime. The people simply think they are dry and even make believe they are dry all the time and they consume booze like they always did. They simply keep on drinking now where formerly they rested once in a while.

George Newton, who has been a member of the Washington, D. C., police department during the past several months, has returned to Washington, Y. C., to make his future home. George says it is too darned cold in that country for a human being and there are too many barebones to watch an honest man at his work. He says he would rather work for $20 a month hauling rock than for $150 a month on the Police Force of the National Capitol. He is back at work hauling rock with Percy Hart for the concrete roadway in the Sutter Basin.

G. M. Purinton who uses the Leinberger slaughter house periodically for the killing of cattle, especially veal, has been enjoying considerable prosperity the short time he has been a resident of Yolo County. Formerly he was a resident of San Jose, where he conducted a wholesale butcher business.

Charles Parlin, a freight handler at the Southern Pacific sheds, was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail by Judge Barry last Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to the theft of two bottles of gin from a case which he had found open in the freight sheds and brought them to his scow at this side of the river where he proceeded to celebrate the New Year with some friends. A warrant for his arrest was sworn to by railroad detective V. McShane.

Mrs. Charles Hines and children are at their home in Riverbank after a few days vacation in San Francisco.

Harley Gallup spent a furlough of ten days with his sister in Riverbank during the holiday season. He has returned to St. Louis.

Alfred Evans returned to New York after a ten days' furlough which had been given him by the Navy authorities so that he might attend the funeral of his father, Thomas Evans. His mother, Mrs. Evans, has asked for his discharge because she is entirely dependent on him for support. In all probability it will be granted him.

Ray Russell was at home during the holiday season on furlough from Mare Island. He has returned to his post again.

Eighteen cases of influenza prevailed in Washington on New Year's Day, but some were of such a slight character that the afflicted were recovering rapidly. There is no doubt however, that the disease has taken its toll at this side of the river as well as elsewhere.

Mrs. Thomas Williams who has been down with the influenza is gradually recovering.

Norman White has been at home during the holidays from Camp Fremont where he has been in the service of his country during the past six months. He expects his final discharge very soon. His brother, F. L. White, is confined to a hospital in Camp Dix, New Jersey.

Miss Veda White has been confined to her home here with a slight case of the influenza. She is able to be around her home and expects to be out in a few days.

Word has been received from Stockton of the death of Ed Todhunter, a former resident of Washington and brother of Frank, John, and Bert Todhunter. He was 52 years of age, the cause of his death being influenza.

OPENING OF SCHOOL INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

The trustees of the Washington Public School have decided that the session will not be opened within the coming week or until the epidemic of influenza has decreased.

At the present time it is dangerous to subject the children to contagion because it is known that on New Year's Day there were eighteen cases of the disease in the town and nearly all among children.

One of the trustees said to the Independent yesterday that the lost time can easily be made up by cutting out the non-essential studies during the remainder of the term after the school opens and permitting the children to devote all their time to the subjects that are considered essential.

Trustee White was in Woodland a few days ago and secured from the County Superintendent of Schools her consent to this idea.

The date for opening cannot be announced at this time but due notice will be given in the Independent as soon as possible.

MERKLEY'S DEATH CAUSED BY PULMONARY TUBERCULOSIS

Taken down with influenza about ten days ago, John J. Merkley, a victime of tuberculosis, died at his home near Vin Station, on the Sacramento Northern Railway, north of Washington, on New Year's Eve.

For some time, John Merkley had been suffering with the trouble but owing to his age his relatives felt that he would overcome the disease. He was less than 24 years of age.

John Merkley was a bright, intelligent young fellow and on the death of his father nearly two years ago, succeeded to the management of the ranch owned by his mother.

Besides her, he leaves Mrs. Howard Williams, a sister, Ella, Ruth and Jessie C. Merkley to mourn him.

He was a native of the place where his death occurred and was a sober and industrious young man.

His funeral was held last Thursday from the undertaking parlors of Miller & Skelton in Sacramento and was strictly private.

LEVEES FOR SACRAMENTO BY-PASS BEING BUILT

A suction dredger has been at work for some time in the Sacramento River at the Sacramento By-pass filling or building the levees at either side of the pass to guard the land outside the by-pass.

The work is progressing slowly but as fast as may be expected under the conditions. Sand is being pumped from the bed of the stream to make the filling which will probably be finished before the end of January.

This work has been in progress for several years, Sacramento City bonding itself for the building of the weir proper and the State Reclamation Board taking over the balance of the work as a part and parcel of the State reclamation scheme in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys.

Following the completion of these levees at either side of the by-pass to the Yolo Basin, the front levee will be leveled leaving the weir exposed to the river and permitting any undue excess water to flow over the weir and into the basin.

So much delay has been occasioned in this work that many people became of the impression that it would never be finished. It is now in a fair way to be completed before any winter flood and the present stage of the river seems to guarantee there will be no trouble during this winter season.

CRIPPLE KILLED BY FALL FROM TRUCK

Last Saturday evening Wm. Emerson, a resident of Sacramento and legless, while riding on a truck on Second street near the railroad embankment with his companion, A. H. Flint, was jolted from the seat and fell a distance of about 10 feet.

When picked up, Emerson was in a precarious condition and on removal to the Emergency Hospital in Sacramento where he was given first aid, he died.

Flint and Emerson had been at work hauling wood for Hart and Brietzke. After their day's work was completed they were returning to Sacramento. The truck struck a rut which jolted Emerson from the seat resulting in his death.

A verdict of accidental death was rendered by a jury in Coroner Fenton's court.

LARGE SUM INVESTED IN WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

The residents of Washington District have invested in War Savings Stamps up till December 31, 1918, the great sum of $13,264.30. This is somewhat short of the quota apportioned to the district but is nevertheless a splendid showing for the people of this district.

Yolo County, as a whole, has gone over its allotment of $300,000.

Stamps are still on sale at the Post Office in Washington, with the probability that the alloted amount will be reached within the coming month.

The current exhibit at Arthur F. Turner Library is the watercolor paintings of Ann Saibeni, a well-known artist from Elk Grove. The exhibit will be on display until April 4, 2001.

Saibeni is interested in interpreting her reaction to a variety of places and enjoys painting on locations she has visited, near and far. For instance, "Castle Combe, England," portrays a medieval town by a sandstone bridge over a river of rushing water. The soft colors reflect the quaintness and quietness of the village in contrast in "Garden Gate, Santa Fe" where the forms are more simplified and the colors are more compelling appropriate for the hot dry climate of New Mexico.

An introspective mood is conveyed by the muted colors in a large painting called "Mystery Park". A lake is surrounded by a grove of trees with dark undertones which evokes one's curiosity -- the park could be a number of places, but where?"

The topical island, "Molokai", with lush tropical growth is happily painted with quick, spontaneous strokes in sunny yellows and bright greens.

Closer to home are a number of paintings depicting places like Miller Park. The massive river trees form a frame of a "Fisherman" in his small boat hopefully waiting for a bite. The historical old "Rhoads School, Elk Grove" is shown in simplified forms accenting the time long ago when life was more rural and simpler.

Three of the art works are made with hand-made paper by Saibeni out of corn stalks from her husband's corn field. The texture and colors are used to great advantage in "Kimono", to show the rich and elegant garment. "Introspection" is set in a shadow box and uses pale colors also using the hand-made paper. "Onions for Accent" combines the paper with watercolor.

The exhibits at the library are sponsored by the East Yolo Friends of the Library.

The Osprey, which is being built by Boeing Co. and Bell Helicopter Textron at a cost of $43 million each, was considered one of the wonders of aerodynamic engineering when its prototypes came off the assembly line over a decade ago. (The craft takes off and lands like a helicopter and flies like an airplane.)

The Marine Corps expected to make it the linchpin of its transport fleet. But a number of crashes, some fatal, have put its future in doubt. In 1991, the first prototype crashed. In 1992, the second prototype crashed, killing seven people.

In April 2000, an Osprey crash killed 19 Marines. The cause was laid to "pilot error." After being grounded for several months, the Osprey was returned to service. In December, it was grounded again after another crash killed its four-member crew, including the pilot, who was considered the best in the service. The craft was grounded again pending the completion of the most recent investigation.

With the best Osprey pilot at the controls in December, it will be interesting to learn if the service cites "pilot error" again.

Meanwhile, if anyone can share an experience with an Osprey, please do so. Also let's have your comments on whether the Osprey program should continue.

To Your Good Health

by Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

CROPS OF BLISTERS ARE THE HALLMARK OF PEMPHIGUS

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: In April I was diagnosed with pemphigus. I am not sure about this disease. Please help. — V.B.

ANSWER: Pemphigus is a somewhat rare skin disease. Recurring crops of blisters break out on the skin and inside the mouth. Some people experience an itch before the blisters appear.

Pemphigus patients have an immune system producing antibodies that attack skin cells. The antibodies cause surface skin cells to separate from underlying skin cells. The gap between the two skin layers fills with fluid.

Prednisone and CellCept are drugs that harness a runaway immune system. They stop the production of destructive antibodies.

In the years before such medicines, pemphigus killed many of its victims.

How long you have to wait until you are in the clear is an unanswerable question. Many people experience at least a partial remission of symptoms in two or three years.

I can do better than give a capsule explanation of pemphigus. Let me refer you to the National Pemphigus Foundation, Box 9606, Berkeley, CA 94709. The phone number is: (510) 527-4970. It is not a toll-free number. The foundation can provide you with timely information and put you in touch with others who suffer the same fate.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: The day after I arrived in San Francisco to attend a conference, I felt a muscle strain across my chest and down both arms. I blamed it on a herniated disc in my neck.

That night the pain started up while I watched TV in bed. My friend and I took a cab to the nearest emergency room. While I was being attended, I went into cardiac arrest. I had had a heart attack. I was told that had I not been in an emergency room, I would not have been resuscitated. I had stents placed in my heart arteries. Perhaps your readers will learn something from my near-fatal experience. — J.B.

ANSWER: We are used to thinking that the pain of a heart attack is a crushing chest heaviness that often spreads to the neck or down the arms. If every heart attack behaved that way, then thousands of people would not delay in getting the help they need. Many of those people die because they have no inkling that they are in dire straits.

As many as one in three heart attacks produces no pain. Without any warning signs, these people live in ignorance of their precarious hold on life. Only if they happen to have an ECG during a routine exam do they learn that they had a heart attack.

Some heart attacks make a person short of breath without any chest pain. Frequently people mistake heart attack pain for an upset stomach, which they treat with antacids.

Thank you for alerting readers to heart attacks that do not present the classic symptoms.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

by Matilda Charles

On Jan. 20, former Texas Governor George W. Bush was sworn in as the 43rd President of the United States. As I write this, I expect that the new president's cabinet will be in place and that the members of Congress — both in the Senate and in the House — will have been sworn in. The proverbial shirtsleeves should be rolled up in Washington, and everyone in government should be ready to go to work for us.

That being said, I received a lot of mail from you during the presidential campaign. Much of it involved concerns you'd like to see resolved in the new administration. The following list presents five of the most frequently discussed issues:

1. With so many HMOs dropping out of Medicare and taking their prescription drug programs with them, you would like the government to set up an affordable prescription drug plan that will allow HMO-displaced seniors to continue getting the drugs they need.

2. Tax relief for families who care for an older or disabled relative at home.

3. Tougher laws against senior abuse.

4. Provide free or inexpensive legal advice for seniors who may be pressured into making unwise decisions about their assets. (The biggest complaint involves seniors whose children or grandchildren try to get the older folks to sign over their property to them.)

5. More honesty from politicians on matters regarding end-of-life decisions. (We'll discuss this one in further detail in an upcoming column.)

Please comment on any of these topics and, by all means, please send along your suggestions for what you feel are priority matters for the new administration.

P.S. Congress faces a new election in just two years: The entire House and one-third of the Senate will be running, with no coattails to carry any candidate along. Each one will have to stand on the record she or he makes from now until 2002. Remember: Seniors comprise a powerful voting bloc. Make sure your candidates know what you'll be looking for when you go out to cast your ballot.

Too proud to beg? Not this dog

Q: How do I stop my dog from begging for food at the table?

A: Training, training, and more training. It's an unpleasant fact, but consistent obedience training is the best way to prevent undesirable behavior like begging.

Unfortunately, "Don't beg, Spot!" will not stop your dog from standing next to your chair and giving you his best sad-puppy face. Giving him a bit of food will not make him go away, either. In fact, it encourages begging and reduces the effectiveness of his training.

Teach your dog to lie down and stay — these two commands can be simplified into a phrase like "down-stay." Work with him daily in a training setting — not in the kitchen at dinnertime.

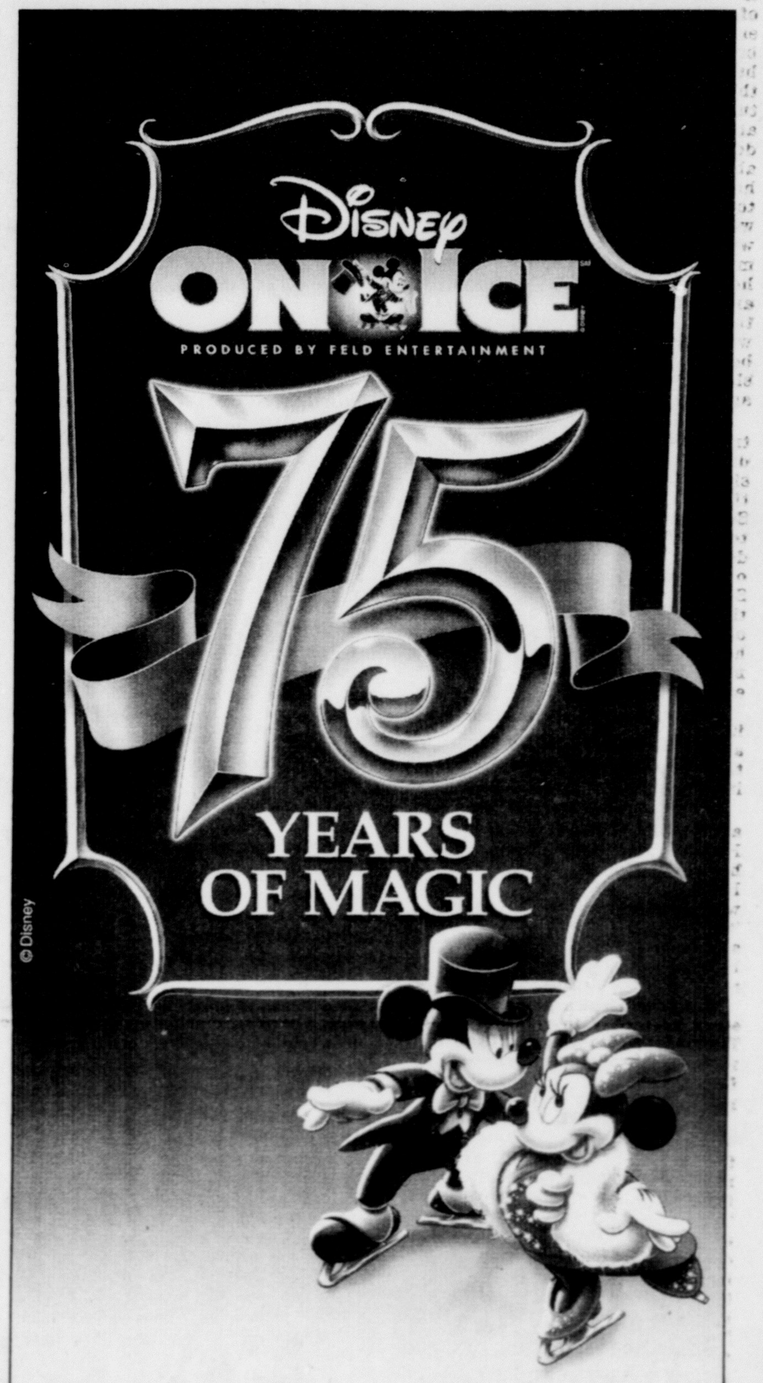

First, train the dog to lie down on command. Once he does this without hesitation, work on having the dog lie down and stay ("down-stay") in one position, within an imaginary circle you draw around him. He can move his head and wag his tail, or even lie on his side or belly up; however, he cannot stand up or move out of the area you put him in.

Have your dog stay in this position for only 15 to 30 seconds at first. Once he's accomplished this, double the amount of time; double it again as he responds to the training. If he tries to walk, crawl or roll out of the circle, put him back in the center and start again.

The point of this command is to have your dog lie quietly whenever needed — at dinner, visiting with friends, in the park, and so on. Consistent training will keep him away from the table during dinner; just be sure to reward him with lots of attention — and a healthy dog treat — afterward.

ful Lincoln High School and came away with a 40-28 victory in their third league meet of the season .

"I can't remember the last time River City beat Lincoln in wrestling," said RCHS wrestling coach Jerry Ferris. "We have a very young team this year, and a big win like this is really good for the program."

A number of outstanding matches were turned in by the River City wrestlers, including wins by Alton Pagenkophf at 125 lbs, Bryon Groesbeck at 140 lbs, Justin Hunt at 145 lbs, Jeremiah Hunt at 215 lbs, and Cody Smith, who wrestles in the heavyweight weight class. The victory pushed River City's league record to 2-1 and left the team with a good chance of going to league finals this year.

"We have a really hard-working bunch of young athletes," said Ferris, "and they're only going to get better next year. The only senior we're going to lose is Cody Smith, our fine heavyweight, and although we're definitely going to miss him, I think in the years to come, this team can be as good as it wants to be. And hopefully in the not too distant future we'll also be able to establish a good wrestling program at Golden State Middle School, which I think is the last piece of the puzzle in terms of making River City a high school which produces quality wrestling teams each and every year."

Ferris concluded by saying, "Leadership is a big part of any wrestling team, and Bryon, Cody, and John Sweeten have really stepped up in that area. From our practices, which are very difficult and demanding, to the tournaments we've participated in, we've shown a lot of heart and dedication, and I'm very proud of this team."

For those of you who would like to see the River City wrestlers in action, they host Dixon High School this evening at 6:00 p.m. in the River City gymnasium. They are also scheduled to participate in a tournament in Lincoln on Saturday, January 27th. Note: Information for this article was provided by RCHS student Nikki Ramos.
